

You people have to set your own agendas aside for once. If you deregulate the ownership criteria anymore, it will be a path of no return. We need to hear both sides of an argument. Not just the ones that the fatcats want us to hear. I never could understand how Hitler took over Germany, if you go forward with your proposals it will be a step in the same direction!